

Sandra Ignacio Romany

From November 2007, Sandra Ignacia Romany has been an acting Research Officer in the Trinidad and Tobago Police Service. Her interests include Crime and safety, future studies, volunteerism, French and lifelong education.

Sandra holds a Bachelor degree in Management Studies (Specialization) and Sport Management (Minor) and is currently reading for an M.Phil. in Governance and Public Policy (thesis: Annual National Threat Assessment for Trinidad and Tobago).

Sandra's ultimate goal is a PhD in Governance with emphasis on improving methods that examine crime risks and underreported crime.

Sandra wants to see PFI membership expand in developing countries and believes that the PFI, with its wealth of experience, can be a source of advice for late adopters of policing technology and legislation/